LYNCH KILLED HIS BABY. THE MODERN THREW HIM ON THE FLOOR WHILE

This Fractured the Infant's Skull-He Did Not Die Immediately, So Lynch, it In Thought, Then Tried to Smother Him, Although James F. Lynch's wife was obliged to make a charge against him of murdering their baby son yesterday morning, she says her husband was a very decent man when he lived in Chicago. But after they moved to this city he became dissipated and spent most of his waking hours in saloons. The little time he spent at home he divided between abusing her and sleeping. He was jealous of her, and it was his custom to charge her daily with infidelity. The other tenants of the house at 415 West Fifty. third street say that she is a well behaved

When Lynch found that he could not get at her he was wild with anger, and, after throwing her supper into the stove. he left the house cursing. Mrs. Lynch carried her child down stairs to the rooms of a Mrs. Gibson. Later Lynch came back and locked the doors of his rooms, after which he went out again. When he returned at 1 o'clock yesterday morning Mrs. Lynch was waiting for him in the hall. She begged him for the keys. "You have no right to these rooms!" he said, "and if you bring that baby up stairs, I will murder it. I can tolerate you, but not that

Then he struck her in the face and added: I would murder you if you were a man." "Mrs. Lynch ran back to Mrs. Gibson's rooms and bolted the door. All night long she beard

At 6 clock he rapped at Mrs. Gibson's door, and Mrs. Gibson, who was holding the baby, opened it. He snauched the baby from her arms and ran up the stairs. Mrs. Lynch darted after him, fearful for the child's life. Lynch ran into their flat and, closing the door, put his back to it.

his answer.

Mrs. Lynch went down to the street for a policeman, and, not finding one, she ran all the way to the Forty-seventh street station. She toid the Nergeant at the deak that she feared her husband would do injury to their child. He directed her to report the matter to the police-ban on post. She went back to the house, and, on going up stairs, she found the door leading from the hall to the dining room open. When she went in she saw Lynch standing by the bedroom door.

from the hall to the dining room open. When she went in she saw Lynch standing by the bedroom door.

"Where is the baby?" she asked breathlessly.

"In bed and asleep." grunted Lynch.
She heard the child's heavy breathing, and, looking into the bedroom, saw him on the bed with a pillow over his head. She tried to force her way into the room, but Lynch held her back. Then he selzed the infant by his two feet and hurled him at her, shouting:

"Catch it, or it will fall!"

Mrs. Lynch caught the baby in her arms. His head was swollen, the eyes were black, and blood ozed from his mouth.

"Oh, what have you done to the child?" screamed the mother.

"None of your business." replied Lynch, and again he tried to strike her.

The woman ran out of the room, and, giving the child to Mrs. Gibson, she went to the street and told her story to Policeman Pierce of the West Forty-seventh street station. He put Lynch under arrest and sout the child to Hooseveit Hospital in an ambulance. The doctors found a fracture at the base of the child's skull. The infant died a few hours later, and Lynch was committed to the Tombs without ball by Coroner Fitzpafrick to await the inquest. Mrs. Lynch made a statement, and it was upon her evidence that her husband was held. The police say that he threw the child on the floor and afterward tried to smother him.

FREDERICK SEMBLER'S SPREE.

Disappears During Its Progress, Frederick Sembler, aged 35, of 1,707 Broadway, Brooklyn, is a salesman for Jeweller John Crane of 172 Broadway, New York. On Thursday morning he started out with a satchel con-taining over $3,000 worth of diamonds and ent directly to Brooklyn. Late the same night he was found helplessly drunk in Raymond treet, near De Kalb avenue, by Policeman Robinson and taken in a patrol wagon to the Classor avenue station. Several watches, chains, and a diamond brooch, valued at about $250, were and in his pockets.

It was not until he sohered up in the morning It was not until he sobered up in the morning that he missed the satchel containing the rest and unauthorized. The books show that of the jeweiry and diamonds. He had only a vague recollection of his movements on the previous day, but remembered that he had visited several saloons in the neighborhood where he was found. He was still partly dazed when he went on a tour of inspection with the detectives went on a tour of inspection with the detectives yesterday, and it is suspected that he got some knockout drops. Mr. Crane says Sembler has sold goods for him on the installment plan for several years, policemen and firemen being his principal customers. He believes him entirely treastworths.

PATERSON, Nov. 22 .- Judge John Hopper in the Court of Quarter Sessions to-day sentenced William Heffin, convicted of keeping a disorderly house, to two years in State's prison Great efforts had been made to have his license taken away by the Board of Aldermen, but the latter had refused to do so. In passing sentence the Judge said:

"The Court does not hesitate to express its views of the conduct of the Aldermen. They were undoubtedly guilty of violating their oath and their duty. They knew it was their duty to revoke this license without any hesitation; they knew, aside from other things which had been shown, that Heflin was not licensed to conduct a convert hall."

Dr. Deutchen was also sentenced to two years in State's prison on a charge of keeping a disorderly house, as was also John Luthy. In sentencing Deutchen, Judge Hoppersaid: "In your case we have another instance of the character of the Board of Aldermen. There was not a man on that Hoard who didn't know that you have been conducting this concert hall, yet they permitted you to conduct two places, although the licenses were not in your name."

JERSEY CITY'S NEW CITY HALL. Commissioners Report on Hard Luck, Leaks, and Delays.

In answer to Mayor Wanser's demand upon the Commissioners who are constructing Jersey City's new City Hall for information as to the present condition of the building and the probable date of its completion, the Commissioners sent eight typewritten pages of information to the Mayor resterday. The entire sum available for the purchase of the site and the construction of the building is $800,000. Of this amount $394,000 was spent for the site. The Commis-sioners say that they met with obstacles from the very beginning. The first bids received were in excess of the appropriation. Then it became ecessary to alter the specifications to suit the appropriation. Another delay was caused by the reluctance of the Board of Finance to issue bonds on account of the unsettled condition of the reluctance of the Board of Finance to issue bonds on account of the unsettled condition of the money market at that time. The contracts were awarded on Dec. 27, 1893. The pilling was done promptly and satisfactorily. In the winter and spring of 1894 the weather and the couglitions of the labor and material markets were so favorable that the erection of the building progressed rapidly.

It was not until the fail of 1894 that the first serious trouble occurred. Then Richard English, the contractor for the tone work, notified the Commissioners that he was being delayed in his work by the contractor for the carpenter work, who had not put on the roof, and unless the roof was put on at once he would not be responsible for the safety of the walls. John Kiernan, the contractor for the carpenter work, denied that he was the cause of the delay. He finished the roof, any way. At the first succeeding rain storm about seventy leaks were discovered in the roof, and that was the beginning of the City Hall scandal. The contractors and the architect, Lewis H. Broome, got into a controversy, each blaming the other, and the architect plening a great share of the blame on Inspector Tailman.

The Commissioners say that they have ordered all the defects in the building remedied, and the contractors have been instructed to do what the architect tells them to do. The Commissionera have not paid for any disputed work. They have retained $112,830 to meet any loss the city may sustain on arcount of imperfect work. The building will be completed and ready for occupancy in from four to six weeks after Jan. 2, 1896, the date fixed for its completion. The Commissioners assert that they have attended to their duties faithfully and that no fault can be found with them.

ped to Europe to-morrow by various banking iouses. All of it was withdrawn from the Sub-Treasury, but owing to the offer of the Treasury Department to furnish fine gold bars for export at a charge of 1-16 of 1 % cent., only $1,500,000 of coin will be shipped. At the beginning of business the Treasury offered its bars at 1-10 of 1 $ cent., but as that rate did not appear to appeal to bankers the rate was promptly lowered. It was argued in some quarters that the action of the Government in placing gold bars at the disposal of shippers stimulated or facilitated exports of the metal. This view appears to be supported by the fact that the opportunity to obtain bars at a slight premium as compared with coin led some bankers, who had provided against shipto cover their own drawings, to throw those bills upon the market and take bars in their place.

that its holdings of bars are so much larger than its free gold coin that it is wise to part with the bars rather than the coin, particularly as the cost of minting is saved by doing so. the foreign exchange market it was generally believed that the exports of gold to-mor-row, which bring the total for the week up to $7,350,000, will relieve the strain to an extent that will result in much smaller chipments next week. Arbitrage houses that have the most intimate relations with London are of the opinion that foreign speculative holdings of stocks have now been pretty thoroughly liquidated; and it has been obvious for some time that the volume of local liquidation has been very small. On the other hand, the narrowness of the market for securities and the almost utter absence of legitimate demand for them is demonstrated by the fact that the excellent showings of the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad and of the Tennessee Coal and Iron companies for October had practically no effect whatever upon the market for the shares of those companies.

The noteworthy dealings to-day were in Chi-cago Gas, American Tobacco, Sugar Refining. Western Union, and United States Leather. Of these the last named and American Tobacco were the only ones that closed materially lower than yesterday. The market for Chicago Gas was unsettled by the circulation of rumors, subsequently denied, that the Attorney-General of Illinois had disapproved of the pro-posed plan for consolidating the various Chicago gas companies. Western Union was excep-tionally firm, presumably because the bearish views that have been circulated in the Street regarding the effect of the decision of the United States Supreme Court relative to the contract between the Western Union Telegraph and Union Pacific Railroad companies have enconveyed the creation of a fairly large short interest in the stock of the first named. The closing was dull and irregular.
